304 HRM- Strategic Human Resource Management

Subject Core (SC) Course- Human Resource Management

Problem Statement:

"In today's dynamic and rapidly evolving business environment, organizations face a different challenge related to managing their human resources strategically. As businesses increasingly recognize the pivotal role of human capital in achieving sustainable competitive advantage, the need for effective Strategic Human Resource Management (SHRM) practices becomes paramount."

Course Outline:

This course aims to address the following key areas and challenges in SHRM:

Defining Effective SHRM: Defining and understanding the concept of SHRM and its objectives in the context of contemporary organizations. How can organizations align their HR strategies with their overall business strategies to maximize performance and competitiveness?

Evolving Landscape of HRM: Analyzing the evolution of SHRM and the shift from traditional HR practices to strategic approaches. What factors have driven this evolution, and how can organizations adapt to this changing landscape?

Components of SHRM: Exploring the critical components of SHRM, including human capital management, valuation of human resources, HR cost, and investments in HR. How can organizations effectively manage their human capital to achieve strategic objectives?

HR Planning for Strategic Impact: Investigating the role of HR planning as a strategic tool. How can businesses integrate HR planning with their overall business strategies, and what are the best practices for job analysis, demand forecasting, and supply forecasting in the HR planning process?

Specific HR Strategies: Examining specific HR strategies such as talent management, career planning, succession planning, compensation, and employee engagement. What are the strategic implications of these HR practices, and how can they contribute to organizational success?

Global Dimensions of SHRM: Assessing the challenges and opportunities of SHRM in an international context. How can organizations navigate cross-cultural management and ethical considerations while pursuing global competitive advantage through their HR strategies?

Implementation Challenges in the Indian Context: Addressing the unique challenges and issues organizations face when implementing HR strategies in the Indian business environment. What are the cultural, legal, and economic factors that impact SHRM in India?

By delving into these critical problem areas, this course aims to equip students with the knowledge and skills necessary to develop and implement effective SHRM strategies that align with the broader goals of organizations in an increasingly competitive and globalized world."

This problem statement outlines the key challenges and questions that the course will address, setting the stage for a comprehensive exploration of Strategic Human Resource Management.

Course Outcome:

On successful completion of the course the learner will be able to

Subject Core (SC) Course- Human Resource Management

Assignment No 2

SHRM Discussion Board Activity Scenarios

Dear students,

We will be hosting a discussion board activity in the classroom on November 21, 2023, covering the following topics. Please choose a topic that you are comfortable with, prepare a write-up based on the key points mentioned in the scenario, and submit it before November 21, 2023.

1: Talent Management Strategy

A mid-sized technology company is experiencing high turnover among its software developers. The turnover is affecting project timelines and quality. The HR department is tasked with developing a talent management strategy to address this issue.

Key Points:

- The HR department should conduct exit interviews to understand the reasons behind the high turnover.
- Implement a structured onboarding process to help new hires acclimate to the company culture and values.
- Develop career progression plans for software developers to increase retention.
- Provide ongoing training and skill development opportunities to keep employees engaged and up-to-date with industry trends.
- Consider offering competitive compensation packages and benefits to attract and retain top talent.

2. Mergers and Acquisitions (M&A) Integration

Two companies in the healthcare industry have merged, resulting in a significant overlap in their workforce. The HR department is tasked with integrating the two organizations' cultures and HR practices.

Key Points:

- Conduct a cultural assessment in both organizations to identify similarities and differences.

- Develop a communication plan to inform employees about the merger and its implications.
- Create a cross-functional team to manage the integration process.
- Harmonize HR policies and procedures, including compensation and benefits.
- Provide training and support to employees to help them adapt to the new organization's culture.

3: Managing a Remote Workforce

A global IT services company has transitioned to a remote work model due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The HR department faces the challenge of managing a remote workforce effectively.

Key Points:

- Establish clear remote work policies, including expectations for work hours and communication.
- Provide employees with the necessary technology and tools to work remotely efficiently.
- Offer remote team-building activities and support for employee well-being.
- Implement regular check-ins and performance evaluations to track productivity and address any issues.

4: Diversity and Inclusion Initiatives

A manufacturing company is committed to enhancing diversity and inclusion within its workforce. The HR department is tasked with implementing effective diversity and inclusion initiatives.

Key Points:

- Conduct a diversity audit to assess the current demographics of the workforce.
- Develop diversity and inclusion training programs for all employees.
- Establish mentorship and sponsorship programs to support underrepresented employees' career growth.
- Encourage diversity in recruitment efforts and create diverse hiring panels.
- Create a safe space for employees to report discrimination or bias incidents.

Kindly submit it before-----.
