Title: "Summer Internship Programme Preparation"

Guest Speaker: Dr. Jayesh Minase

Brief Report: The preparation process for SIP involved setting personal goals, conducting company research, enhancing skills, refining application materials, engaging in networking, preparing for interviews, and continuous professional development.

Personal Goals and Objectives:

Clear goals were established for the internship, focusing on skill development, industry exposure, and professional growth. These goals align with my broader career aspirations and contribute to a purposeful internship experience.

Company Research:

Thorough research has to be conducted of the host company, covering its background, mission, values, and recent achievements. This knowledge forms the foundation for effective integration into the company's culture and aligning contributions with organizational goals.

Skill Enhancement:

Efforts were directed towards enhancing technical and soft skills relevant to the internship role. Participation in online courses, workshops, and practical projects aimed to acquire and strengthen competencies crucial for success.

Resume and Cover Letter Preparation:

The resume underwent careful review and updates, emphasizing experiences and skills required to the internship. A tailored cover letter has to be crafted to showcase alignment with the company's values and a clear understanding of the role.

Interview Preparation:

A systematic approach to interview preparation included mock interviews, self-reflection, and feedback sessions. This preparation aimed to build confidence and readiness for the interview process.

Conclusion:

The comprehensive preparation undertaken positions us for a successful and impactful Summer Internship Program. We were enthusiastic about contributing to the team, learning from the experience, and leveraging this opportunity for professional and personal development.

Case Study: Uber Disrupting the Taxi Industry

Uber's ascent as a disruptive force in the transportation industry has been nothing short of revolutionary since its inception in 2009. By ingeniously harnessing technology and pioneering the sharing economy model, Uber swiftly reshaped the traditional taxi landscape across the globe. With its groundbreaking mobile app, Uber seamlessly connected riders with drivers utilizing their personal vehicles, bypassing the cumbersome infrastructure of conventional taxi dispatch systems. This innovative approach not only delivered unparalleled convenience, transparency, and affordability to consumers but also fundamentally altered the competitive dynamics within the industry.

In response to Uber's disruptive incursion, traditional taxi companies and regulatory bodies faced significant challenges. Confronted with a paradigm shift in consumer preferences and operational norms, taxi firms struggled to adapt their legacy business models to the new digital era. Regulators grappled with the regulatory implications of Uber's disruptive innovation, often leading to contentious battles over issues such as licensing, safety standards, and fair competition.

The impact of Uber's disruptive presence reverberated throughout the taxi industry, profoundly influencing consumer behavior, pricing dynamics, and regulatory policies. Consumers flocked to Uber for its convenience, affordability, and superior user experience, leading to a notable decline in traditional taxi usage. This seismic shift in demand forced taxi companies to reassess their pricing strategies and service offerings in a bid to remain competitive in the face of Uber's relentless expansion.

Uber's ambitious global expansion strategy further compounded the challenges faced by traditional taxi services. Navigating diverse cultural, legal, and economic landscapes, Uber tailored its business model to suit the unique nuances of each market it entered. However, this expansion was not without its obstacles, as Uber encountered regulatory hurdles, opposition from incumbent players, and cultural barriers in some regions.

Key lessons gleaned from Uber's disruptive innovation underscore the imperative for businesses and managers to embrace technological advancements, anticipate shifting consumer preferences, and adopt agile strategies to thrive in dynamic markets.

In conclusion, Uber's meteoric rise as a disruptor in the transportation industry serves as a compelling case study in strategic innovation and market disruption. News paper Peadng Analysis : Human voice is a unique gift, use it well

Speaking Test

By - Homayun Taha

Each of us has a unique voice that is an orchestra. The voice alone is not an instrument. As an instrument we and other one can learn to play it well with focus on tempo, timbre, tone, emphasis, speed and volume.

Two unmistakable voices come to mind: "I have a dream," from Martin Luther King Jr. and the other of Louis Armstrong.

It is still amazing how the pumping of air from the lungs to vibrate the vocal cords could create such a range. The quality of a voice depends on the position of the tongue, teeth and variation in granulation.

There seem to exist three kinds of voices - one we speak in, one when we think or ruminate, and one when we write. It is said that each of us finding one's voice is a challenge for any author.

An echo is the return of a voice. Silence is its absence. The more you speak, the more you can communicate a lot. A voice can be gentle, stern, melodious, or commanding. It can convey the subtlety of a fatter, intensity of passion, or the precision of a doctor's diagnosis. The voice is the instrument of the heart, the voice of judgment.

Voices of power, the marginalized have no voice. Therefore, they need a voice reached to help. Equally so when people speak in one voice, it is not a democracy. Democracy at its core implies diversity of voices.

All cultural traditions know the significance of the sound of the voice - recitations of sacred texts, the Gregorian chant, mantras, recitations, and the Azan call to prayer. Words or mantras become alive through intonation and voice.

In order to tune to the inner voice, quiet so that it is heard and the cacophony of the external ones needs to be muted. One authentic voice that is difficult to ignore is the voice of conscience - that quietly audibly one that tells us "Don't do it."

To express and to connect are two main human psychological needs - expressing feelings, needs, ideas that establish connection. Disconnection often explains why people shout, not because of physical distance but the psychological one.

From a mother's soothing, melodious lullaby to the inspiring voice and words of a great speaker, the acoustic energy of a voice can lift us with warmth of enthusiasm or dampen our spirits. It is an instrument of impact, therefore, a careful choice as to how to deploy it - appealing to us, listening to guide, asking to be reasonable, or attempting to dispute, creating disharmony that may be the reason we can still hear the voices of those who have impacted our lives. However, the experience less of it because the cacophony of texting and emojis has left little scope for sensing the tonal quality, mood, nuance, and the warmth of the spoken word. For this reason, I prefer sending voice messages.

The singing of birds at dawn and dusk could be interpreted as the voice of joy. What they convey is that the world is meant to be celebrated. And here once again, Louis Armstrong's voice begins to resonate in our ears.

Name of the Student: Esha Vilas Malshikare

In Homayun Taber's article "Human voice is a unique gift, use it well," the emphasis on the importance of the human voice resonates strongly. The human voice is indeed a remarkable gift, serving as a powerful tool for communication, expression, and connection. It allows us to convey our thoughts, emotions, and intentions in nuanced ways that written words or gestures alone cannot achieve.

When we use our voices effectively and responsibly we can foster understanding, empathy, and unity among individuals and communities. It enables us to build meaningful relationships, bridge cultural divides, and inspire positive change. However, this gift can also be misused or underutilized, leading to misunderstandings, conflict, and missed opportunities for connection.

Therefore, it is essential to recognize the value of our voices and strive to use them in ways that uplift and empower both ourselves and others, This means actively listening to others, speaking with honesty and integrity and advocating for justice and equality. By harnessing the the powers of our voices of good we can create a more harmonious and inclusive society. Where everyone's voice is heard and respected.

Agricultural & Rural Entrepreneurship & Sustainable Farming Practices.

In India nearly 73% of the population live in rural areas, where agriculture is being the major part of their life. The economic development of the country, the scarce resources are used efficiently by the rural entrepreneurs by increasing the profits and decreasing the cost. The main problems faced by the rural development entrepreneurs are shortage of finance and raw materials & peculiar problems faced by the rural entrepreneurs are illiteracy, lack of training and experience, fear of loss, competition from urban entrepreneurs.

Feedback:

It is such a wonderful experience. The topic of group discussion is social entrepreneurship and sustainability they are inseparable. As we discuss on so many points like common goals, Government and policies, community engagement, Impact of education, Innovation. Also some of them among us talk about positive as well as they are minimum points on negative impact.

At the last according to all group discussion we conclude that they are not inseparable. We get lot of information from this hope it will help in future also.
